Dear Sponsor,

I'm so happy to introduce you to Christine Joy P. Abasola and her lovely family! Joy is a bright and cheerful 10-year-old girl who loves to learn and have fun. She was born on January 25, 2014, and is the third child in her family. Joy is 125 centimeters tall, weighs 19 kilos, and has a lovely fair complexion with moles on both sides of her cheeks.

Joy is a fourth-grade student at Muzon Pabahay Elementary School, and she's having a great time learning new things every day! She loves Filipino class and enjoys dancing and exercising during PE. Her dream is to become a doctor someday.

In her free time, Joy loves playing with toys and her playhouse. She's also a fan of dancing to TikTok tunes and helping around the house by washing dishes and running errands.

Joy's family is lovely too! Her father, Christopher Abasola (38), is a junk shop owner who earns $110 per month, and her mother, Helen Abasola (36), works as a garbage sorter and earns $35 a month. They're a hardworking family who spends most of their earnings on family education, food, utilities, and medicine.

We're thrilled to introduce you to Joy and her family.

The Abasola family has been living in their own house for over 11 years. The house is built with cement walls and floors, while the roof is made of G.I. sheets, and it needs repair. It doesn't have a separate room, but it has 2 windows that provide adequate ventilation. The family is fortunate to have access to basic utilities such as electricity and water. They use a butane portable stove for cooking and typically have three meals a day consisting of rice, fish, and vegetables. The family gets their water from a piped water system and has a water-sealed toilet. For household waste, they use a government disposal system.

Just like any typical Filipino family, the Abasolas have many aspirations. They want their children to receive a good education, maintain good health, keep the house clean and organized, and most importantly, improve their income.

We are thrilled to let you know that the PSBP, along with the community, has established health, education, and psycho-social development programs that benefit children, families, and communities. We would love to encourage the Abasola family to participate in these programs, which will bring new hope and confidence to the family as they work towards a better future.

The sponsorship assistance that PSBP could provide will significantly support Abasola's education and her family as well. PSBP is devoted to helping children achieve their full potential and build better lives through its various programs. With your help, the Abasola family can receive the financial assistance they need to make their aspirations a reality.

Joy and her parents are eagerly looking forward to communicating with you in the future to share special and important events of their family.

We hope that you find this new partnership meaningful and rewarding.

Very truly yours,

Executive Director
